

Minor charge against I-70 killer draws wave of protest

The indictment returned Tuesday charging a 25-year-old white man with a rather menial "reckless homicide" in connection with a fatal shooting last Saturday morning of a black has relatives of the victim and community spokesmen upset.

It's just another example of the double standards of justice used so often," declared Dr. Andrew J. Brown, Indiana Christian Leadership Conference president, even before the indictment was returned. Brown called a press conference Tuesday morning to protest Marion County Prosecutor Stephen Goldsmith allowing the admitted gunman to go free without bail.

The family of the 49-year-old victim, Ernest W. Powell, 3137 Manor Court, has taken issue with several accusations which supposedly led the Marion County Grand Jury to opt for the lesser offense.

Among them is the finding, as reported by Indiana University Medical Center staffers that Powell's blood alcohol content was way over .10 percent, the amount considered legally intoxicated.

Observers feel this report gives credence to the account submitted by 25-year-old Terry Moore, claiming he shot Powell with a .357 magnum because the gunman feared for his life.

A check with co-workers indicated Powell, described as a likeable father of eight, had no history of drinking at work and he had left his job only an hour before he was fatally wounded near an I-70 exit around 8 a.m. He died minutes later in Community Hospital.

"He would have either had to dump it down or soak himself in it to raise his blood level so much," commented one medical authority when questioned about being able to consume so much alcohol so fast.

Family members who are angered because the alleged assailant was charged with a class D felony which carries a maximum prison sentence of 3 to 8 years were led through the grand jury process by a prosecutor who had "no intention of seeing that justice was a consideration," one relative said.

The allegation is vehemently denied by Goldsmith, who was quick to point out that the grand jury was made up of two blacks along with 4 white citizens.

"We presented the grand jury the alternatives that were available and the members of the jury chose to indict Mr.

WEARING THE GREEN: Indianapolis Police Officer Ralph Montgomery discusses Atlanta's 23 dead or missing children with Northeastside teenagers while wearing one of more than 600 green ribbons donated to IPD by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. An IPD spokesman said civilian and uniformed personnel exhausted the initial supply of 600 ribbons in less than an hour, requiring another shipment. In announcing the IPD ribbon-wearing last Monday, Chief Joseph McAtee said the gesture is designed to "properly show our concern for the tragedy surrounding the murders and demonstrate our solidarity with Atlanta citizens." ### Brotherly love

Painful

Vernon Jordan was visited by presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan as the National Urban League head recuperated from a gunshot wound suffered in an assassination attempt last May 29 outside a Ft. Wayne motel.

But little did Jordan know that almost a year later he would return the gesture to President Reagan.

Jordan and Reagan reflected on the attempts on their lives last Sunday in a Washington hospital, where Reagan has been under close observation since his shooting Mar. 30 outside a Washington hotel.

"It sure hurts getting shot," Reagan told Jordan, who replied, "It hurts like hell."

Everywhere

It seems that Ku Klux Klan and Nazi symbols are cropping up everywhere.

Four days after a staff writer for The Recorder witnesses a large red truck bearing a painted "K.K.K." symbol and a swastika in the area of East 25th and Talbott, a swastika appeared on the mailbox outside Mayor William Hudnut's home.

The truck dropped about 20 soft drink cans into mid-afternoon traffic April 1 on East 25th. The swastika appeared last Sunday on

Quote

"What'll they think of next," quipped a Metro passenger on the 5 Columbia/Northwestern route after getting an apparent first look at the transit system's new fare box, which electronically counts each coin dropped into it, displays the amount on a screen to the driver, and offers a space-age "beep" after registering the proper amount.

Fair

Fair weather friends will have a lot to crow about this weekend, according to the National Weather Service.

A chance for showers Thursday will give way to fair conditions Friday through Sunday. The weather service forecast highs in the 50s and 60s and lows in the 30s and 40s all weekend.

Homegrown

Television's favorite butler is a real, honest-to-goodness Hoosier.

Robert Guillaume, star of NBC's "Benson" series was born in Vincennes.

Another television actor, Lloyd Haynes, of the now-defunct ABC series "Bosom 222," was born at South Bend.

'Trial would prove fatal to DeFrantz'

Tests show an embezzlement trial slated to open Monday would kill ailing former Indianapolis Community Action Against Poverty (CAAP) head Robert DeFrantz, a doctor reports.

Suffering from heart disease, DeFrantz would face "sudden death" if forced to stand trial on a 116-count federal indictment charging him with stealing $120,099 from the local poverty agency, Dr. Warren Cavashaw said Wednesday. The doctor cited reports from recent minor heart surgery performed on the 56-year-old former Indianapolis School Board member.

"He (DeFrantz) would more than likely die suddenly of a heart attack," Dr. Cavashaw said, "because of the stress involved in a trial." The defendant's personal doctors had earlier determined trial stress more than he could survive.

DeFrantz remains in Methodist Hospital after last week leaving Wishard, where he entered with chest pains and, at one point, was shackled to a detention room bed.

Warren Township officials invite parents of bused pupils to talk

Whether they like the idea of busing or not, Warren Township School District officials aren't waiting until summer to prepare for black inner-city pupils they'll be receiving this fall.

"Perhaps you are aware that under the court order which has been given by Federal Judge S. Hugh Dillin, your child will be attending school in the Metropolitan School District of Warren Township beginning with the 1981-82 school year," starts a letter signed by Dr. Donn V. Kaupke, superintendent.

Warren Township is one of six mostly white suburban school districts ordered by Judge Dillin to accept a total of 6000 pupils from the Indianapolis Public Schools System beginning in September.

And Warren is scheduled to get the largest share, over 12,000. Little of the heated resentment apprehension and fights of 13 years of court litigation over desegregation is evident in Superintendent Kaupke's warm letter.

Addressed to parents of pupils assigned to his system, it encourages parents to attend a meeting beneficial to everyone involved.

"It will...afford you the opportunity to meet informally with representatives of our administrative and teaching staffs, some of our current PTA members and a representative from the IPS Human Relations Department. It will also enable us to listen to your ideas and input."

Actually, there will be a series of meetings next week spaced out in different locations for convenience, as the letter explains. "These open information meetings will be held at various IPS schools affected by the court order. On the attached sheet is a list of dates, times and school locations for each scheduled parent meeting."

"Encourage you to attend one or more of these meetings and hope you will encourage other parents to attend, especially if their child or children will be attending school in Warren Township next year. This is true even if the children are currently enrolled in a private or parochial school."

The meetings begin Monday, Monday, April 13, 7 p.m., John Marshall High School, 10101 E. 38th St. Schools involved, 113, and 94. Tuesday, April 14, 7:30 p.m., School 53, 5815 E. 42nd St. Wednesday, April 15, 6:30 p.m., School 71, 3333 N. Emerson Avenue. Thursday, April 16, 7 p.m., School 83. Thursday, April 16, 7:30 p.m., School 106, 5301 Roxbury Road.

A collection of personal artifacts belonging to Roy Wilkins, former Executive Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was presented to the Smithsonian Institution this week in Washington, D.C., becoming the first collection from a national black leader to be housed in the famous museum.

A.D. Pinckney testimonial set

Dr. A.D. Pinckney, immediate past president of the Indianapolis NAACP Chapter, is about to be raked over the coals in a friendly sort of manner.

A special committee composed of people who've followed Dr. Pinckney's illustrious career as a prominent dentist and earnest-hearted community worker are planning a testimonial dinner roast for him Friday, May 8, 7 p.m., at Saint Peter Claver Center.

Says Moses W. Gray of the special committee, "Dr. Pinckney has served our community for many years and has recently retired as president of the Indianapolis Chapter NAACP. During Dr. Pinckney's presidency, many accomplishments were made in the area of civil rights."

Listed as official sponsors are The Greater Indianapolis Branch NAACP and Indiana Black Expo 81.

The roast is expected to feel "at home" among the special guest of national prominence expected to attend. They include Dr. Benjamin Hooks, honorary chairman and national executive director of the

Missing retarded man added to inquiry on Atlanta killings

ATLANTA - A retarded man missing since March 30 was added last Friday to the list of young blacks whose murders and disappearances are being investigated by a special police force. The additional name raised the count of unsolved cases to 25.

Larry Rogers, 20, was the second slightly built, retarded adult to be put on the list, which now includes 22 deaths and three disappearances.

The water-swollen corpse of another mentally retarded man, Eddie Duncan, 21, was pulled from the Chattahoochee River southwest of Atlanta last week.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said that Rogers had been added to the list "because of similarities in his profile and disappearance and that of other cases being handled by the task force."

Rogers was last seen in his northwest Atlanta neighborhood climbing into a car driven by a lone black male with a thick, false-looking moustache, the police said. The police said that Rogers had the mental capacity of a 7-year-old child. Like Duncan, Rogers has a speech impediment and chooses young children for his friends.

His family told the police that he had never attempted to run away. His disappearance was not reported to the police until last Thursday, three days after he was last seen. His foster father said he had expected Rogers to return home.

Meanwhile, when Andrew Young, former representative to the United Nations, announced his candidacy for mayor of Atlanta last Friday, he said that the series of child murders should not be an issue in the race.

"I think the general agreement amongst most of the announced candidates is that that should not be an issue. Our objective is not to put the city on trial or the police on trial. Our objective is to catch the killers and put them on trial," Young said at a news conference.

Atlanta parent expected for memorial on Circle

A parent of one of the 23 dead or missing Atlanta children is expected to join local and national religious leaders next Thursday for a memorial service on Monument Circle.

A local concerned citizens group will decorate trees surrounding the Circle with green ribbons bearing the children's names for the 11:30 a.m. service, expected to draw large support from those sharing a nationwide hope that the person or persons responsible for the murders will be brought to justice.

Another parent to replace Mrs. Camille Bell, mother of missing 16-year-old Joseph Bell who will be in California next Thursday, was expected to be confirmed early next week. Mrs. Bell, president of Atlanta's Committee to Stop Child Murders who appeared recently on "Tony Brown's Journal," last saw her son in March. Young Bell is 22nd on Atlanta's list of 21 children found dead and two reported missing since July, 1979.

Other featured speakers will be Rev. Mrs. Dorothy Cross, associate executive director of education and ministry at Synod of Lincoln Trails Presbyterian Church, USA; Rev. Andrew Brown, pastor of St. John Missionary Baptist Church, and Rev. Henry Williamson, pastor of Phillip Temple CME Church and executive director of Indianapolis Operation People United to Save Humanity (PUSH).

An Indiana Black Republican Council representative and the U.S. Army Center Choir are also scheduled for the service, which its backers encourage school pupils to attend with

House Demos reject Reagan Budget plan

WASHINGTON-

The House Budget Committee, overriding Republican protests, rejected President Reagan's overall budget proposals Tuesday and moved toward adoption of Democratic plan that assumes a smaller deficit, more spending on social programs, and less on defense than the administration's recommendation.

The vote was 17 to 13 to reject Reagan's overall budget plan, with all the "no" votes cast by Democrats. All 12 Republicans on the committee and one Democrat, Rep. Phil Gramm of Texas supported the President.

The Democrats' alternative calls for a balanced budget in 1983, one fiscal year ahead of the Reagan plan. But, it rejects the administration's proposal for a three-year, across-the-board tax cut of 30 per cent, substituting a less expensive one-year reduction instead.

The Democratic alternative restores more than $7 billion in cuts Reagan wanted to make in a variety of social programs. It trims more than $4 billion from the administration's defense budget. Overall, it cuts more than $4 billion from Reagan's tax package.

ATLANTA-

Andrew Young, the black former United Nations ambassador who was the source of several foreign policy conflicts during the Carter administration, announced Monday he will run for mayor of Atlanta.

The 39-year-old ex-congressman, a leading figure in the civil rights movement and a close confidant of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., resigned his UN post in 1979 amid a furor over his unauthorized meeting with the representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In the mayoral race, Young joins a crowded field seeking to succeed Maynard Jackson, who became the first black mayor of a major southern city eight years ago. Prior to his election, he had served four years as the city's vice mayor.

"Over the course of the next six months, this will be a campaign that will involve a consensus of issues," Young said.

"We be talking to the rich and poor, black and white, young and old, Hispanics, Greeks...the entire spectrum of our city's population."

Young is considered a front-runner. Jackson, who is ineligible to succeed himself, rated him the best-qualified candidate. Nevertheless, he faces a tough three-way race against

A. Reginald Eaves, a county commissioner, and veteran state Rep. Sidney Marcus, a white legislator.

Observers believe the Oct. 6 nonpartisan election, in a city with a 66 per cent black population, will probably be decided by a runoff with Young and Eaves splitting the black vote and Marcus, who also has some black endorsements, picking up the majority of the white vote.

'Who's Who'

BY HENRY HEDGEPAATH

VERNON M. HARWELL

Say music, and you're talking Vernon M. Harwell. He uses his talent for the "glorification of God," and there are a lot of people who'll agree he does an outstanding job.

Must be, because in 1978 Harwell and his Christian Community Ensemble were honored with a trophy in WTLC's first Gospel Music Awards for being the most promising group.

This was semi-climatic in a singing career rooted, naturally, in Vernon's early childhood. He emulated various gospel artists at the piano and singing while very young, following this up with membership in The Bethel Tabernacle Junior Choir at age 12.

From there, it was a matter of polishing up on a natural gift. Vernon got quite a bit of that after his graduation from Arsenault Technical High School, studying voice and piano at Indiana Central College. At Indiana University, he's still fondly remembered as an organizer of the now renowned "Indiana University Voices of Hope."

Finally came the gift as far as opportunity's concerned, becoming a protégé of Robert Turner with his much acclaimed Silver Heart Gospel Singers. Touring's big with Turner's singers and Harwell was kept busy crisscrossing the country.

With this traveling came chances to share billing with such legendary gospel artists as Albertina Walker, The Mighty Clouds of Joy, Rodena Preston, Marion Woods and Isaac Douglas.

Finally in 1977, Vernon M. Harwell, by then distinguished in his own right, formed his own group, The Christian Community Ensemble, and hasn't looked back since.

When not directing or rehearsing with Christian Community Ensemble, Harwell is working at Hartford Insurance Company as a coding technician. He followed his father into the ministerial ranks. His though is minister of music at the Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Vernon M. Harwell looks ahead when it's time to give credit.

Thank God and my parents, Rev. and Mrs. Clark Harwell and many others for the inspiration. God has blessed me to write songs like "Make Us One Perfect Peace," "Jesus Will Provide," "Thank Him for My Life," and the "Narrow Way." I intend to use my talents and gift all to His Glory.

Mobile murder protested as a lynching

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1981

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—The Southern Organizing Committee for Economic and Social Justice (SOC) labeled the March 21 murder of Michael Donald in Mobile, Ala., a "lynching," and said it proved anew that "a resurgence of racism has reached crisis proportions in this country."

"Our national clock moved back last Saturday in Mobile to the 1920s," SOC said, "and if concerned citizens, white as well as black, do not organize, quickly to reverse the trend, we will find ourselves back in the 1970s."

The body of Michael Donald, 19-year-old Black man, was found in the early morning of March 21, hanging from a tree near a Mobile apartment complex. He had been beaten and strangled. Three young white men have been arrested and charged with murder in the case. Police have stressed the fact that Donald was apparently dead before he was hanged in a noose from the tree.

"It doesn't really matter whether this young man died before or after he was hanged," SOC said. "This was clearly a lynching in the traditional sense. Murder, intimidation, and terror against blacks and other Third World people have been increasing daily throughout our country for the last few years. Now with the return of the lynch rope, we have taken a qualitatively new and tragic step backward into darkness."

SOC is a Southwide interracial network of activists working for the goals stated in its name, economic and social justice. Its headquarters are here in Birmingham, and its chairpersons are the Rev. Ben Chavis of North Carolina and Anne Braden of Kentucky.

The organization said it was especially concerned because most of the national news media have not given adequate attention to the Mobile event.

"Does our press understand the manner in which lynching shaped the history of this country for so many years?" SOC asked. "Between the end of Reconstruction in 1876 and the 1960s, there were more than 5,000 recorded lynchings of blacks in our nation."

The first sign of a return to this pattern should have produced banner headlines across the country. Perhaps some people feel that if we ignore such a happening it will go away. The opposite is true. This nation must face the truth about the direction in which it is headed, so it can dig up the root of the evil that produces such a tragedy."

The root cause is the fact that racism has become respectable again in the United States," the organization said. "National leaders attack affirmative action and school desegregation and imply that blacks and other people of color are to blame for the country's economic problems. Racist stereotypes have gained new credibility, and powerful forces seek to turn back the gains blacks made through the civil rights movement."

"In Mobile itself, blacks have been barred from effective participation in the political process by city-wide instead of district voting. When they challenged that in a lawsuit, they were rebuffed by the U.S. Supreme Court. Meantime, the Ku Klux Klan operates paramilitary training camps in Alabama, unchallenged by the government."

All of this, SOC said, creates an atmosphere in which racist violence has grown. "The end result of racism is always murder and genocide," the organization declared. "In a society where racism has become socially acceptable again, it is inevitable that lynching will also become socially acceptable."

SOC called on citizens both black and white to unite to deal with the situation. "There must be swift action at all government levels to halt the racist violence," the organization said.

"But also there must be a massive new campaign to destroy the racist myths that divide our country. All persons who have helped perpetuate those myths, or have sat silent as they have spread, must bear part of the responsibility for that body found hanging in the tree in Mobile last Saturday."

SOC noted that the fact that three men have been arrested in the case does not necessarily mean there will be convictions.

"We are aware of the pattern of acquittals, or token sentences, in such cases," the organization explained. "There is a tendency to say juries often won't convict. But usually what juries do depend on how the prosecution presents a case."

"We are asking our friends to communicate with Mayor Gary Greenough, City Hall, Mobile, Ala., and Alabama State Attorney-General Charles Graddick, Montgomery, Ala., letting them know that the world will be watching this case and that this nation demands serious and aggressive prosecution," SOC said.

"Collection of debts is an integral part of the Veterans Administration's proposed FY 1982 budget."

Getting a better job and increasing one's knowledge are the two main reasons why veterans have used their GI Bill education benefits.

DELISA LEE, Cyndi Jewell and Katrina Kelly (left-right), all of Indianapolis Troop 927, are pictured prior to leaving on the Hoosier Capital Girl Scout Council Voyager Trip to Washington D.C. Monday, March 30. All three Girl Scouts sold over 1,000 packages of cookies each during the 1981

cookie sale to earn the bonus trip. Katrina is a top salesman for the second year. 88 girls and adults toured the White House, Arlington National Cemetery, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the U.S. Capitol Building and Ford's Theatre, before returning to Indianapolis April 3.

George Sutton's STARSHINE

The true path of humanity is God

The path of humanity is largely upset by outside influences. One must think deeply before one decides on his her life direction: it must be of benefit to the individual, his her family, as well as your community. The need for family unity is greater now than ever before. There are many changes coming up this year, and one must be ready to react. Most of all believe in yourself and do not block the path with drugs and or alcohol. Also, get rid of those negative thoughts and actions: for, they will only open up negative doors that are hard to close.

If one ever needed to know God, now is the time to get on the path. Your religion or pastor can not save you. It is up to the individual to do the work that God has planned for him her. There are many who go to church seven days a week and are not doing any of God's work. God lives within the body, which is where the work of God begins. One can not reach out to others until one has first reached inward.

It makes no difference what religion you belong to because there are only two kinds of people... those who know and those who do not know... the power and the knowledge of God.

ARIES
Be cautious with sharp instruments and getting involved in other people's arguments. If you begin to feel accident prone, again be cautious and drive carefully. This is a favorable time of year for you: do not blow it.

TAURUS
Control your temper with your spouse and family: if you get upset, go to a place of amusement or just take time out and relax. Planting season is here. You being an Earth sign, working with the Earth is one of your greatest past times.

GEMINI
Your ruling planet is moving very fast; try not to get involved in more than you can handle. If a new love has just come into your life, be watchful of your mental compatibility with love. You are a mental sign.

CANCER
At this time, you will need to control your emotions. If you want to be loved, you must give love and not be so fault finding with spouse and others. If you are in a negative relationship, you must work to make it more positive or it will soon come to an end.

LEO
Your ruler, the Sun, is doing good things to Leo. You must take advantage in a positive way. The areas are: your employer, your mate, and business. Luck is, also, in your favor, at this time. Be watchful of being too fixed in your ideas with others. Many messages will be coming to you through your dreams. "Think".

VIRGO
April 17 marks the beginning of a good time of year for you: be ready. Until this time you should use control with your involvement with others. Your mind will be reacting a little bit faster. You sit in the driver seat of your thoughts. Use control in your handling of money and your physical drive.

LIBRA
For those of you born the first five days of this sign, you must deal very positive in your involvements or you will be depressed. You other Libras, get your mind and health in order. If you feel trapped in a relationship, look deep within yourself and make sure you are not the problem. You are being forced to deal in a positive way, the sooner, the better.

SCORPIO
Be careful of opposition with others, guard your money and make sure you keep up with receipts, warranties, and guarantees on items you purchase. If you are thinking of buying a car or any other machinery, hold back until the end of April.

SAGITTARIUS
Luck will be in the air for many of you, only deal in what you feel. Shopping for the home and working around the home is favorable. Your involvement with friends and large groups of people is accentuated this year. Stay positive and help were you are needed.

CAPRICORN
You must be watchful of getting too involved with the problems of others. Make sure your energy level is working in a positive way. If you get involved, the home should be at the top of your list. This week get it together if there are problems in the home. No time to waste.

AQUARIUS
As you can see the World is going through many changes. You are the sign that has an eye for the future, as well as the present. If you have never used this gift, this is the time. Get the home and family together and begin to work with the community, you are needed. Many positive thoughts will be running through your mind, use this energy wisely.

PISCES
You need to be in control of yourself when you pick-up negative vibrations from others. There are times when you mind reacts like a sponge, absorbing the feelings and thoughts of others. Be on guard with the protection of God. Do not wear rose-color-glasses to escape the "real world".

If you have questions and want to see how Astrology fits into your life, club meetings, classes or lectures write: G. Levi, c/o The Indianapolis Recorder, 2301 North Tenth Avenue, Indianapolis, Indiana 46218. Answers to letters will appear in the Recorder.

TIPS ON WRITING LETTERS:
- For an Astrological reading include name, date, time, and place of birth of each person you inquire about.
- Letters will be edited for length and clarity but not the basic letter content.
- State if you do not want your name published and the reason why.
- To insure confidence, slight alterations will be used to protect privacy of the writer.

Coupons are worth money. This year, companies will offer more than 50 billion dollars worth of savings in coupons. Think of it: 50 billion dollars. But not enough people know about the importance of using coupons, and that's why out of the 50 billion, only 5 billion will be used. The other 45 billion dollars worth of savings will be wasted. Don't let some of those savings be yours.

Why Companies Give Coupons

It's simple: They want us to buy their products, and by giving coupons they make it easier for us to do that.

Sometimes a company wants us to try a new product of theirs. They believe if they can get us to try it the first time, we'll buy it again later on at the regular price.

Sometimes they want us to switch to their brand from another one. So they use coupons to fight the competition. Sometimes they want us to use the same product differently or during a different time of the year.

Whatever the reason though, the results are the same—you save money when you use the coupons the companies offer.

Easy to Use

Coupons are easier to use than ever. Today's coupons come on self-stick and self-seal, so you don't have to search for them. You can probably even find one example in the paper you're reading. They also come on packages, in magazines and free supermarket inserts.

So remember—coupons are worth money and they're easy to use. Give coupons a try. You've got nothing to lose but the pain of not trying.

Sponsors concentrate on Easter Parade st special luncheon hostessed by 3

The Recorder Women Sponsors enjoyed a very informative and inspirational meeting the past Saturday when they met at the Ramada Inn as guests of the charming Mmes. Cassie Downey, Richard Clay and Irene Watson.

These lovely sponsors provided a delicious luncheon for members and guests of Recorder Women Sponsors who met to complete plans for the Annual Easter Parade for Tots! Tween! and Teens! to be held Easter Monday night, April 20, 7 p.m., in the Caleb Mills Hall of Shortridge High School, centrally located for the convenience of hundreds of young people throughout the city who will take part in the parade.

Mrs. Fred Perdue, chairman of the Sponsors, acknowledged the gratitude of the Sponsors for the cordial and delightful hospitality provided by Mrs. Downey, Mrs. Clay and Mrs. Watson.

Following an inspirational period of worship conducted by Mrs. Downey, Mrs. Paul A. Batties, director of Sponsors, directed the discussion of business pertaining to the completion of plans for the Easter Parade. Proceeds from this lovely production will be used to provide the annual $500 scholarship in memory of beloved, deceased Recorder Women Sponsors.

With the completion of the business phase of the meeting, the distinguished guest speaker, State Senator Louis Mahern, was introduced by his charming wife, Mrs. Cynthia Mahern. Senator Mahern's address was most stimulating; he gave a vivid panorama of many interesting and drastic changes that are taking place in our community at the city, county and state levels, and he pointed up the need for citizens to become aware and concerned in order to take part in possible actions designed to overcome present obstacles that hinder progress.

All present were grateful to Senator Mahern for the information he presented. Closing remarks by Dr. Russell A. Lane were also deeply appreciated.

Among other special guests in addition to Senator and Mrs. Mahern and Dr. and Mrs. Lane were Mrs. Genevieve Hutson, Mrs. Martha Jones and her daughter, Miss Martha Jones.

Hard cooked eggs--the best way

Easter season calls for piles of gaily decorated eggs. To make sure the "gaily" doesn't turn into "ghastly," William Stadelman, professor of animal sciences at Purdue University offers some tips on selecting and processing Easter eggs.

Select eggs that are clean, uncracked and unsoiled. "Many eggs marketers spray a fine mist of food-grade mineral oil over the eggs just prior to closing the cartons to help keep the eggs fresh," Stadelman says. Oiled eggs or very fresh eggs (less than 5 days old) are often difficult to peel. Buy eggs for hard cooking a week before cooking, he advises.

Cooking can also influence how easily the egg peels. For the best results, Stadelman recommends bringing the eggs to room temperature, then heating 2 quarts of water to the boiling point. Add the eggs and return the water to the boiling point. At this point turn the heat off and cover the pan with a lid. Leave the eggs in the hot water for 15 minutes. Remove the eggs from the water and cool.

Though this method results in thoroughly cooked, peelable eggs which have a nice, yellow yolk, (dark outer yolk is the result of over-cooking) it also can result in some eggs cracking during cooking. Cracking can be reduced by placing the eggs in room temperature water, then bringing a to a boil as above, but this make them harder to peel, says Stadelman.

Many people believe that making a pin hole in the end of the egg before cooking will reduce cracking and make for easier peeling, but Stadelman doubts the effectiveness of this treatment. The best compromise, he believes, is to use eggs which are more than 5 days old.

In fact, many new brands have been introduced since, including some "ultra low tars." But despite the new entries, CARLTON has maintained its leadership position—CARLTON still lowest.

CAPS, GOWNS and diplomas were in vogue Friday night, April 3 at The Indianapolis Pre-School Auditorium, 2801 North Capitol. The auspicious occasion was Community Action Against Poverty's first clerical commencement exercise, meaning enrollees had successfully completed requirements making them suitable for professional career

Variety of workshops for women slated by hospital

Two workshops designed especially for women will be offered by Methodist Hospital's Continuing Education, Social Services and Security Departments.

Teaching potential crime victims to prevent crime against themselves and their property as well as what to expect from the legal system and police department in the event of a crime are the objectives of an April 22 workshop "In Defense of Self and Property."

The program, which begins at 8 a.m. and ends at 3:30 p.m., will feature lectures, demonstrations and small group practice sessions on topics such as crime avoidance techniques, self-defense techniques, inexpensive home protection techniques, vehicle protection techniques and sex crimes.

Workshop faculty includes Patricia Mulvaney, director of social services at Methodist; Greg Stone, Methodist's security department director; a Marion County Deputy Prosecutor and an officer from the Indianapolis Police Department.

The workshop, open to the public, will be limited to 50 participants and a registration fee of $15 covering folders, handouts, and break refreshments (not lunch) must be in by April 15 to reserve space.

The second workshop, entitled "Health Awareness for Women," will be offered on three successive Wednesday morning sessions, April 29, May 6 and 13 at 8:30 a.m. with registration and concluding at 11:15 a.m. Participants may attend one or all sessions.

Session I, "There's No Such Thing As Illness," concerns holistic health and how moods and lifestyles can affect health. Faculty members include Michael DuBois, M.D., private practice in internal medicine, and Scott Sheedy.

Sharecropper's son is honored by Goodwill

Handicapped people have earned 25 million dollars at Goodwill Industries of Central Indiana.

To mark the milestone, Goodwill's president, James M. McClelland, presented the milestone dollar last month to Alfred Pennington in the small appliance area of the rehabilitation center at 1635 W. Michigan.

The 25th million wage dollar set a record. It was the first time one million dollars was earned within eight months. It took eight months and 21 days to reach the 24th million last dollar. It required 21 years for the Indianapolis Goodwill to pay the first million. Staff salaries are not included.

Pennington was selected for the honor to receive the ceremonial dollar because of outstanding performance despite his condition. A victim of polio since he was two, Pennington started at Goodwill in 1967. With legs twisted under him, he propels himself on a low board with wheels. At his long work table in TV repair, he sits on a special stool mounted on wheels. It moves on tracks. A Goodwill supervisor designed it.

Son of Mississippi sharecroppers, Pennington was reared by relatives. There was no hospital in his home town of Dublin, Miss., and little opportunity for schooling.

Director, Prospective Medicine at Methodist Hospital.

Session II, "Breast Self Exam," will be conducted by Krilla Dailey, R.N., Nursing Unit Manager at Methodist Hospital.

Session III, "How To Make Exercise Fit You," will identify the importance of exercise and teach selected exercises and exercise regimens. Karen Thurston, YWCA fitness and dance instructor and professional Middle Eastern dancer will teach the session.

A $10 registration fee per session, must be received at least one week in advance of each session. No more than 30 will be accepted for each session.

All sessions will be located in conference room A of the Tower Inn, 1633 N. Capitol. For further information, contact Sandra Piercy, 924-8728.

Resources. The Reagan administration program would lead to a disaster for public education, said Albert Shanker, president of the teachers' federation. "The sum of these policies are clear—take support away from those who need it most and give it to those who need it least."

Willard McGuire, president of the 1.8 million-member NEA, told the Democratic forum the administration's budget cuts would undermine the funding base of public education in the United States and place a heavy burden on the states and local school districts.

Black press honors two publishers

WASHINGTON, D.C.—

The National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA) in a standing room only National Press Club luncheon here on March 20 honored two distinguished former publishers for their relentless crusade and courageous efforts for civil rights and the abolishment of racial segregation.

The two were Mrs. Daisy L. Bates, publisher of the Arkansas State Press from 1941 to 1959 and William Monroe Trotter, publisher of the Guardian, Boston, Massachusetts, from 1901 until his death in 1934.

In ceremonies which followed a speech by Vice President George Bush, plaques commemorating the two publishers were unveiled for enshrinement in the Gallery of Distinguished Publishers at Howard University. William O. Walker, Dean of the Black Press and publisher of the Cleveland Call and Post, extolled the courageous activities of the honorees and presented Mrs. Bates a replica of the plaque.

Vice President George Bush in his remarks to more than 400 guests defended President Reagan's proposals to meet the economic crisis gripping our nation. Stating that this crisis with its problems of inflation, unemployment and overgrown federal bureaucracy is "the result of failed programs and policies of the past," the Vice President urged that President Reagan be given a chance to solve these problems "in an atmosphere of cooperation and reconciliation, not partisan rancor."

In reference to plans to resolve these problems the Vice President stated "it is to bring down inflation and high interest rates by curbing the excesses of a federal spending machine gone out of control—to put jobless Americans back to work by reinvigorating our stagnant industrial base through across-the-board tax cuts and by freeing our system from federal over regulation."

The advocates of the old way had their chance. Now kPresident Reagan is entitled to his opportunity to carry out the programs and policies he believes will put our country back on the road to prosperity with progress here at home, and peace with security overseas.

The Vice President concluded that the President's critics are "woefully off-base" when they charge that the administration has "gone after existing social programs with a meat-axe." He stated that "truly essential social programs, for our poor and disadvantaged remain intact and have not been cut in the Reagan budget."

such as Medicare, school meals, head start, veterans compensation, summer jobs for youths and survivor benefits, among others.

This was the fifth annual luncheon conducted by the National Press Club in conjunction with the National Newspaper Publishers Association—a 60-year-old organization with more than 100 publisher members. It was the culmination of Black Press Week activities and always features an outstanding speaker selected by the Association and the enshrinement of distinguished black publishers elected by the membership for their outstanding contribution to journalism and their communities.

With the addition of Mrs. Bates and Mr. Trotter the total number of publishers enshrined since 1977 is 17.

their parents' permission.

"The significance of what we are attempting to do justifies parents to allow their children to leave school to attend the service with the intent of returning promptly to classes as has been done in other cities when someone like the President make a visit," said Howard Stevenson, Division Community Services fiscal component manager, one of a five-member memorial group that includes Rochelle Walker, who was instrumental in getting local citizens to wear the national green ribbon symbol.

Bible Bowl tests youngsters Farm fest

Youngsters of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church put their knowledge of the scriptures to use on a competitive basis recently in the church's original version of The Bible Bowl, a major activity of their Jubilee Day celebration March 29.

The question-answer meet on Bible facts, laws and commandments, application to home life, parables, miracles and specific topics like The Crucifixion served as "finals" for four mini bowls conducted in February and March.

Teams were split into Gospel Boys and Gospel Girls, with judging done by Mrs. Louise Dotson, Mrs. Frances Patterson, Thomas West, director of Christian Education, and William Malone, acting as moderator.

Winners of the mini bowls had already received personalized "Witherspoon Bible Bowl" Tee shirts.

As a featured highlight, there was the "Glory Bowl," an eye and palate pleasing punch sized ice cream sundae topped with Fourth of July sparklers. And it was readily devoured after the Jubilee Breakfast.

Jubilee Day is celebrated by the Sunday School whenever there are five Sundays in a month. The scrumptious breakfast was prepared and served by Dr. Edward Hicks, Andrew Edwards and Clarence Woods to a capacity crowd.

Program chairman for the Bible Bowl was Mrs. Rosie Hicks, assistant Sunday School superintendent. Contestants on both teams were coached during special sessions by Mrs. Mildred Smith, assisted by Mrs. Lugenia Sutton, all overseen by Mrs. Doris Wood, Sunday School superintendent.

There was much more than trophies and applause at stake. The benevolent minded youngsters got relatives and friends to fill out donation pledge cards, designating money for charitable organizations.

Riley Hospital for Children was chosen by Gospel Boys and Gospel Girls selected New Hope Foundation.

Last year, balloons were launched announcing various Bible dates, and the Sunday School was happy to announce responses from Marion, Indiana, Troy, Ohio, and Hancock County in Indiana.

A word should be put in for the most efficient scorekeeper Mrs. Gracie Edwards, with the help of Herbert Inspeck, backed by volunteers. Also for Sunday School teacher, Mrs. Lula McCampbell Neal, represented by three boys and four girls in the competition.

How many urban children have seen cows, pigs and chickens? Or draft horses? And, how many have had the opportunity to see and feel the true essence of Indiana's heritage?

That heritage is still part of farm life, and children can learn more about it by visiting the Farm Life Festival at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Sponsored by the Farm Life Experience Center located at 6054 Hollingsworth Road, west of the 62nd Street and Georgetown Road intersection, the festival will feature shearing demonstrations, Belgian draft horse rides, farm tours, music, and displays.

"This festival is in conjunction with field trips conducted by Marion County and surrounding county schools," explained Harriet Raines, executive director. "It is an effort to show children what farm life was and really is in order that we can preserve our farm heritage and provide appreciation for those who spend their lifetimes on farms."

For more information on the special activities during the festival or on other events at the center, contact Raines, 299-3198.

Report on 'Black Belt' schools indicates they remain inferior

ATLANTA—Public schools in the so-called Black Belt of the Deep South remain "inferior" to most schools in the South and the nation despite a decade of school desegregation aimed at relieving such conditions, according to a study by the Southern Regional Council.

The study concludes that local resistance to desegregation has been transformed into "local neglect."

The report, "A Decade of Frustration", was issued here last Friday by the council, a non-profit bi-racial organization that has worked in the South since the 1940s to promote equal opportunity. The report follows an 18-month examination of public schools in 34 rural counties in southern Alabama and Georgia where blacks constitute a majority of the population. Nearly all of these school districts have school boards with white majorities.

The report asserted that public education in these districts remained inferior to most schools in the South "often as a result of local government decision-making". Where improvements have been made in education in the counties of the Black Belt, the report continued, two factors have been responsible: mandatory state and federal standards and school boards with a black majority.

It is estimated that 150,000 children, a small percentage of them white, attend the schools in the study.

The Atlanta-based organization's study focused upon four topics in assessing the performance of the school districts in the last 10 years, a decade marked by accelerated desegregation efforts in many districts and the beginning of serious efforts by blacks to get some say in how their schools are run. The topics were: finances, equal treatment, integration and improved programs. A group of comparable predominantly white counties in the same states were used as a yardstick.

In finances, the study found that as a group, predominantly black rural school districts paid significantly less in dollars for public schools, after integration as well as before, than paid by a comparable group of predominantly white districts. The gap between predominantly black and predominantly white districts' local receipts for schools has widened.

Also, in Alabama, the report noted, for every one sale of school bonds in the Black Belt in the decade, there were five sales in comparable predominantly white districts in the northern part of the state. Education has been improved in some Black Belt schools through better teacher-pupil ratios and increased teacher training, the report stated. But the improvements were said to have been largely forced by state standards applied to all education districts.

"In almost every area where Black Belt districts have made progress, one or more school districts controlled by blacks have been among the leaders," said Steve Suits, executive director of the council. "In fact, much of the notable progress and little, if any, of the major failures of Black Belt education in the last decade have been the responsibility of black-controlled districts."

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

REV. PLUMMER D. JACOBS, SR.

In Loving Memory of REV. PLUMMER D. JACOBS, SR.,
Who Entered into Eternity April 12, 1980.

"THE FRIEND WHO JUST STOOD BY"

When trouble came our souls to try,
We loved the friend who "Just Stood by."
Perhaps there was nothing he could do -
The thing was strictly up to us:
For there were troubles all our own,
And Paths the Soul had to tread Alone;
Times when love could not smooth the road,
Nor friendship lifted the heavy load,
But just to know we had a friend who "Stood by" until the end,
Whose sympathy through all endured;
Whose warm hand clasps were always ours
It helped somehow to pull us through,
Although there was nothing he could do.
And so with a swelled heart we cried
"God," "bless the friend who just "Stood By."

Humbly Submitted,
Lavenia B. Jacobs, Wife

DR. PAUL A. BATTIES,
M.D.

Paul A. Batties, M.D.,
In Memoriam

Date of Demise, April 17, 1977

Paul A. Batties, M.D., has been greatly missed by all who loved him, his family, his friends, and countless numbers of former patients who speak of him frequently, saying he was "Special", a stalwart man over the community, one who was not only a fine physician but one who was a dear and precious friend to all whom he was privileged to serve. Dr.

Batties' name is frequently mentioned by many people who have said that his memory is sacred to them and that, in the realm of their family lives, his memory and all that he has meant to them will be a sacred monument in their lives.

Paul A. Batties, M.D., was a forceful and energetic person in his home, over the community, in the hospitals, and wherever his responsibilities took him.

He served thousands of sick and suffering patients in his office, in their homes, and in the various hospitals. He was one of the finest of physicians.

He was greatly admired, loved and respected as a man of culture and refinement.

Dr. Batties was a graduate of the University of Chicago, School of Medicine where he was work as a specialist in Internal Medicine and subsequently in Surgery was so outstanding that he was the recipient of a

Rosenwald Fellowship for more advanced study and research in his area of specialization.

Paul A. Batties, M.D., was a man of excellence, a quiet, modest but forceful man.

Dr. Batties loved his family.

He provided a good home life for his wife and son; he provided and accompanied them on extensive travel experiences in interesting and distant parts of the world. He was a fine man, modest, dignified at all times,

meticulously well groomed, charismatic, a person well met.

Dr. Batties loved his church.

The University United Methodist Church, and he attended and supported it faithfully and generously.

The heavy professional

little time for the enjoyment of recreational activities; however, at one time, Dr. Batties was the "Indiana State Tennis

Champion" and, in more recent years, he was among the very first to attain "Life Master" in

The American Bridge Association. Dr. Batties, a member of the state and national medical associations, served and contributed generously in other vital areas of community service. He was a life member of the N.A.A.C.P., and a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity. Dr. Batties was the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Mark D.

Batties.

On Sunday, April 12th, the Terry family will give her

Sunday prior to the April 17th anniversary of his demise.

There will be flowers on the altar of his church, The University United Methodist, honoring his memory, and a scholarship will be given by his wife

Mrs. Paul A. Batties.

We who are his family are grateful to God for the influence and inspiration of his life and for our friends who share in honoring his memory.

The devoted members of his family are:

Wife: Louise Terry Batties

(Mrs. Paul A.)

Son: Paul Terry Batties,
M.D.

Vrooom! Screeech!

Gap Band burns rubber up the charts

By LYNN FORD

Who ever dreamed three sons of a Tulsa, Okla. preacher would have No. 1 records like "Oops Upside Your Head" and a concert tour expected to play before sellout crowds of 10,000 or more in 50 cities?

It might have occurred to some record producer with a nose for talent the Gap Band would become one of the nation's hottest family acts. But it never crossed the minds of Charles, Robert and Ronnie Wilson, who reached their highest level of success with the single "Burn Rubber on Me" (Why You Wanna Hurt Me?).

The trio started in the mid 1960s, singing gospel in their father's church, and in more than 10 years has reached the brink of superstardom, thanks to a little leg pulling on Ronnie's part.

"We had no intentions of getting into the music business whatsoever," said Ronnie, the group's trumpeter, after a show on the Gap Band's spring summer tour with Cavin Yarborough and Alisa Peoples of "Don't Stop the Music" fame. "We knew we could play and sing, but we never imagined anything like this would happen for us."

All three of us sort of grew out of gospel music when we were teenagers and started hanging around the clubs with local bands. I was about 14 or 15 and I would be and say I was going to the YMCA or to basketball practice so I could hang with the music."

After sifting through different names for the group, the brothers took on the Gap Band handle with "Gap" coming from the initials of Tulsa's three main business streets: Greenwood, Archer and Pine. But there are no "Gaps" in the group's blend of pop, soul, jazz, funk, light country and gospel, which has resulted in two straight gold albums and three No. 1 singles.

"Shake," from the group's 1979 Mercury album "The Gap Band," zoomed to the top of the soul charts and earned strong pop response. It was followed by another No. 1 single, "Oops Upside Your Head," from 1980's "The Gap Band II" album which sold a half-million copies for gold status and had two other strong singles, "Steppin'" and "Party Lights" b/w "The Boys Are Back in Town," a pop country ballad in the Beatles vein that has quite a story behind it.

"We had just come back from a tour and it was unbelievable how Tulsa responded to us," said the charismatic Charles, who doubles on lead vocals and keyboards. "They made us feel like real heroes and they seemed to be really glad we were back in town. It was sort of different because a lot of hometowns don't show that much love for their own entertainers."

"Oops Upside Your Head" recalls a similar story. "One night in Philadelphia we were jamming really hard," remembered Ronnie. "We thought we were doing pretty good but nobody moved. So Robert stopped whatever song we were into and told the people to start saying 'Oops Upside Your Head.' Everybody went wild. We had the same thing

Indy native Vinnegar set for film

NATIVE SON: As we go to press, we received word from California that native son Leroy Vinnegar, known as "The Walking Bass Man," will be among the participants in a new jazz movie, "Early Morning Blues." As yet, shooting has not started on the new flick. According to information received, the motion picture will be shot on location in New Orleans, La., beginning in May. And featuring some of the nation's top jazz musicians in action.

As many of you know, Leroy began his professional career here with the Jimmy Coe Band back in the late 1940s, and 1950s. Later, he left the city for Chicago and was featured with the late keyboardist Art Tatum. Also he has played with many other well-known artists including Les McCann. Watch the column for a follow-up story, etc., on "Early Morning Blues." Incidentally, we had the pleasure to talk with our old friend by long-distance telephone recently.

TUBE-TALK: The Academy Awards program had no Black nominees this year, but the show made up for it with exciting performances by Dionne Warwick, Irene Cara and the Nicholas Brothers, who showed that age does not diminish talent and superb timing. Even before the Academy Awards, the All American Press, an organization headed by Lee Posner and comprised of 40 foreign and domestic editors had picked "Ordinary People," as Best Picture. Robert Redford as Best Director. And had ties for Best Actor and Best Actress between Robert DeNiro, Donald Sutherland, Mary Tyler Moore and Sissy Spacek.

"Today's Black Woman," now hosted by Freda Payne, has added three new stations - Youngstown, Ohio, Macon, Ga., and Jackson, Miss. The popular TV series is currently seen in 54 cities. "The Jeffersons," continues to remain among the Top 15 TV shows. Maria Gibbs, the saucy maid, Florence, now has her own show, "Checking In" which bowed on April 9 for a limited run.

Tony Brown's Journal's next segment centers in on Philadelphia, the once gang-ridden, high-crime section of the East coast that Tony says now has as its symbol of unity in the Black community. Two community groups have turned gang leaders into useful members of the community and marginal students into scholars. He interviews sister Falaka Fattah, director of the House of Umajia and Lt. Charles Patton of the Philadelphia Police Dept. who is also with the Concerned Black Men, Inc., a group of police and fire fighters.

SPORTS: Frank Robinson, Black manager of the San Francisco Giants showed the he hasn't lost his frankness when he was interviewed recently on SC's "Sports Journal" by Robinson explained, "It's the attitude in our complete society. So why should baseball or sports be different?" But he added "fans don't come out to the ball park to see the manager. They don't care what color he is."

TID-BITS: Michael Schultz, Hollywood's most successful Black director has taken over "Family Dream," now called "Bustin' Loose," he film starring Richard Pryor and Cicely Tyson. The picture had to do retakes after Pryor suffered his near fatal accident last year.

New York's WABC-TV's newscaster John Johnson filed a suit alleging racial discrimination against the station last year. And a recent settlement was reached which said the station would feature him in a regular series along with other assignments. Johnson became host of "Air Mail Special," and the show was suddenly yanked off the air last week because of fan mail actually came from the station's staff. According to WABC-TV's management, Johnson was not a party to the deception, this might stave off an FCC investigation.

ITT will sponsor a two-hour family TV special, "Leave 'Em Laughing," April 29 at 8 p.m. on the CBS Network. It's the true story of a Chicago circus clown, Jack Thum, portrayed by Mickey Rooney, who along with his wife Shirlee, played by Anne Jackson, cared for 37 orphaned and neglected children. Four shows continuing on television for the 1981-1982 season are "The Jeffersons" and "Palmerstown" on CBS, "Diff'rent Strokes" and "Benson" on ABC.

Jamaa Fanaka, director of "Penitentiary," and the Jerry Gross Organization are among those being sued in Los Angeles Superior Court for breach of contract by Charles Young, a former worker on the film who claims he is owed $9,100 in back salary. Also he wants $50,000 in punitive damages. He states in his suit his agreement called for him to receive two percent of the flick's net profit which he claimed was about $1,000,000. Later, until next week for the happenings...Believe Me!

Atlanta probe a team effort for performers

ATLANTA, GA. After watching Sammy Davis, Jr., and Frank Sinatra team up to raise over $150,000 at a recent benefit here to aid the police in solving the murders of 21 Black youngsters at prestime, Roberta Flack probably said it best when she remarked, "their efforts reflect the concern of everyone in show business that these killings will be solved."

Before a packed house at Atlanta Civic Center, the two world famed performers were in rare form as they sang the tunes that made them famous. In Davis' case he also danced and gave impersonations of many popular movie stars. The benefit, the creation of Davis and his publicist, Billy Rowe, came about when they sought to make a concrete contribution toward aiding the police to bring an end to a tragedy that started 20 months ago with the first child's killing.

Contributions poured in from major corporations and individuals, including actor Burt Reynolds, who appeared in person with his $10,000 check. Singer Roberta Flack, in behalf of Warner Communications, Inc., the giant entertainment conglomerate and the parent company of Atlantic Records, received a standing ovation when Davis called her on stage to accept the firm's $25,000 check.

Talking to reporters afterwards, she said the killings greatly upset her and is constantly on her mind. "My heart goes out to the parents of these kids whose lives were ended long before they had a chance to enjoy some of the American dream," she said. "It's too bad we live in a nation where lunatics roam the streets killing people at will. I will only rest easy when they are caught and dealt with as the law sees fit."

Dedicates song to Atlanta's children

NEW YORK. Jimmy Mitchell, a singer and songwriter first became famous with his record hit "Eye On The Sparrow" which sold over a million records has a new 45 coming out, "Lord Help Me To Help Somebody." The flip side is "Second Time Around." Mitchell, well-known in the Gospel field, said, "he is dedicating the song to the slain children of Atlanta." He will be touring the South this month to promote the new disc.

BEAUTIFUL ACTRESS Jayne Kennedy related in the April issue of Ebony, "I'm more than just a pretty face," even though her face was once lauded for $1 million. Miss Kennedy values disappointment over her firing by CBS-TV, and the cancellation of the NBC-TV series "Speak Up America," on which she was co-host. Also the young actress expressed optimism, however, because she is becoming back with new films and plans for two new TV sports series.

The general benefit none intended produced "The Rib House" of Self Image Foods which produced two new business owners in-house.

Nina's pastries (a separate business enterprise) will be contracted to provide the desserts for this establishment. This business is owned and operated by Mrs. Nina Gudger.

De Tate's Juices (a second business enterprise) will turn carrots into carrot juice, apples into apple juice, etc. This business enterprise is owned by De Tate, a Ball State student. Miss Tate will also be hostess and waitress for the "Rib House" of Self Image Foods.

Nina will couple her business operation with her cooking responsibilities.

Art will be received from local artist (on consignment) for possible sale by the art coordinator, Miss Jayne Edwards.

Smoked barbecue, the specialty of the house, will be served to you in this fine atmosphere with a blend of soft music which can accommodate dancing feet on a spacious dance floor.

Self Image Foods will attempt to merge additional efforts in the activities of "The Rib House" of Self Image Foods, which will complement already existing black businesses such as records, jewelry, etc.

Presently, free memberships will be required in order to participate in the weekly events of Friday and Saturday from 12 a.m. - 4 a.m. Only members and their guest will be admitted. A BYO event.

The new "Rib House" of Self Image Foods will be open to the public on Friday and Saturday 12 p.m. - 8 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 p.m. - 6 p.m. Religious music and art will blend with Sunday's menu of Smoked Ribs & Chicken Dinners.

Another business enterprise to be owned and operated by a young black male is in the planning stages.

What we're talking about here are three to four business enterprises owned and operated by four different people, meshed into a cooperative effort which will reduce the overhead cost of all.

Each should grow into a situation which will allow them to hire others, expand, etc., when the time is right.

No where to go? Nothing to do? We don't have anything new in Muncie! Stop complaining and support "The Rib House" effort.

Indianapolis Recorders will be sold at the Rib House weekly for your convenience. You may sip coffee and read about the decision makers of Muncie, and what's happening to blacks in general.

I'm looking forward to seeing more of what happened under the leadership of Elizabeth Barnes via the Women's auxiliary of Muncie's NAACP chapter.

The fashion show which took place Sunday (5 April 1981) at the YWCA was very successful. According to Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Seals, their PR person, did a fantastic job of making the public aware of the well planned event.

Subscriptions to the Indianapolis Recorder may be purchased at the Rib House starting this weekend. The Antioch Baptist Church is selling subscriptions to the Recorder to raise money for a life time membership to the NAACP.

A check has been received from the Recorder covering the commissions due from previous sales.

Groups and organizations are encouraged to purchase individual subscriptions to help us accomplish our goal of raising $500 at an earlier date. We need your help.

I have been hawled out about not having an article in last week's paper. Forgive me, it will not happen again. Thank you readers, for noticing.

They are (from left) Lisa Neal, Rhonda Kyser, Teresa Moore, Norma Inby and Moneque Waters. This year's pageant will be at 7 p.m. on Sunday, April 26 in the ballroom of the L.A. ## MINORITY BUSINESS

PHILLIP SAXTON

Why do people go into business?

Phillip Saxton, president of International Marketing Systems, is writing a continuous series of articles on Minority Business. Saxton has extensive management and business experience. He has held positions in academia, large corporations, consulting, vice-president of a small business and now president of his own firm.

In interviewing business owners over the past 10 weeks, it's interesting to reflect over the varied number of reasons why individuals have gone into business. If I were to select one common theme, however, it would be the desire to have some form of independence. Some business owners stated that, "It was the challenge, relying on my own initiative and abilities;" others stated that it was, "the desire to earn money in proportion to how hard I wanted to work," and for some it was pursuing a dream to build successful organization. But when all was said and done, the key word was "independence."

INDEPENDENCE - The type of independence mentioned here is a particular kind that is shared among the business owners I interviewed. They know their talents, abilities, desires and, for the most part, realize their limitations. They are technically effective at doing business and they have confidence in their ability to get things done. They have faults but they avoid going beyond their limitations. They may be ineffective at intricate corporate procedures and not too comfortable with public speaking, but they can operate their businesses profitably.

The prospective business owner must undergo careful self examination to see if independence is present. In many cases business owners must proceed without the support of friends and loved ones. They must decide whether or not what needs to be done, will be done, and can be done without the support of others. The prospective business owner will incur serious problems, often involving the personalities and the ineptitude of employees. When these problems are recognized, the independent business owner will rise above the problem, have the confidence to solve it, and continue to operate the business successfully.

Many people offer excuses, often very good excuses, for not achieving various objectives in daily work. Many other people are consistently late for work but always insists on leaving work on time. If you have these characteristics, then there may be a question as to the depth of independence present. In other words, one should not confuse independence with rebellion. Rebelliousness is one of the most convenient ways to escape responsibility and is not consistent with the independence required of business owners.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE INDEPENDENT BUSINESS PERSON - There are two types of independent business owners. One type is in business simply because they love the challenge; the specific type of business makes little difference. This type of business owner's enjoyment comes from playing the game of business, and he/she would be equally happy regardless of the kind of business he/she is involved in, as long as he/she runs it.

The second type of independent business owner is in business primarily because they like that particular type of business. If their ambition is to have their own catering firm, for example, they would not be satisfied owning a consulting engineering firm. The enjoyment of being an independent business owner comes from the enjoyment of the product or service offered, rather than from the feeling of the excitement and challenge of business competition.

By any standards, the independent business owner is a unique individual. They are people who are willing to risk their personal energy and financial resources to achieve unpredictable results. They are true entrepreneurs - the individual who organizes, operates, and assumes all the risks for their business ventures.

Business school graduates have no special advantage as independent business owners. This type of training equips them to be managers rather than entrepreneurs. The point here is that if you are thinking of going into business, then examine your personal characteristics such as, initiative, leadership, industriousness, perseverance, and organization ability first. But whatever your personal characteristics are, they must include a strong desire for independence, a high degree of self confidence, and a highly practical outlook.

Why do people want to go into business? The answer is independence - the desire to be their own boss. They feel they can get further and achieve more by being in business for themselves rather than by working for others.

Stop smoking sessions set

The Wellness Center of St. Vincent Hospital, located in Mohawk Plaza Shopping Center, 120th and Rangeline, Carmel, will host April's Smoking Withdrawal Program of the American Lung Association of Central Indiana at 7 p.m. April 14, 21 and 28, according to Joseph Capora, 11-year conductor of the program.

Capora, also program director for the American Lung Association of Central Indiana, encouraged smokers who really want to "Kick The Habit" to attend the program, for he said, "We are frequently very successful in helping smokers who are really willing to work at smoking cessation." Each person, he said, are our best candidates for discontinuing the habit of smoking. "We don't have a magic wand," Capora said, "but we do have information, empathy, a willingness to listen and the desire to work closely with each smoker."

REV. JAMES HOWARD

Brewer was shown with taped messages of his being played in a tri-state area upon his death.

Born in Montgomery County, Tennessee, he received his early education in Clarksville and took up his evangelism several years ago.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Florine Simms Brewer; daughters, Sherita Ross, Marjorie, Nikkie Brewer of Indianapolis; a son, James Brewer, Indianapolis; father, James Brewer; mother, Mrs. Anna Brewer; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Liggins, Mrs. Sandra Hodges, both of Clarksville, and two brothers, Andrew Kelly Brewer, Indianapolis, and Albert Lewis Brewer, Chicago.

Marathon and Purdue: They work to increase minority engineers

DR. R. BRUCE RENDA, Dean of the Purdue University School of Engineering and Technology at Indianapolis presented two $500 checks to (from left to right) Ms. Loretta Brinkley and Ms. Sandra Vortner. Both students are studying to become engineers. Ms. Vortner has nearly a perfect grade point average while Ms. Brinkley is maintaining a solid "B" average. Mr. Terry L. Reed, Associate Employee Relations Rep. of the Marathon Oil Company has been instrumental in providing $2,500 in scholarship money for minority engineering students here at Purdue-Indianapolis. Dean Renda, who has long been involved in the Indianapolis community, initiated the Minority Engineering Advancement Program (WEAP) in 1974. WEAP is designed to encourage minority students to enter engineering fields. High school students are brought to the IUPUI campus for a four-week workshop exposing them to engineering concepts. If your child has an interest in mathematics, see your high school counselor concerning WEAP or contact the Minority Affairs Office at Purdue-Indianapolis (264-8391).

James H. Brewer, esteemed minister-musician

Rev. James Howard Brewer, 40-year-old former Indianapolis resident, who "went South" and made good as a minister, was buried recently after rites at Concord Baptist Church, Clarksville, Tennessee.

The minister, who moved from Indianapolis in 1970, is well remembered in local religious circles as a guitarist and singer with The Traveling Interlights here. Ironically just, just before his death, he was due to preach here at Mount Vernon Baptist Church where Rev. Monell Sanders is pastor. With his lingering illness, a benefit was to be given here for him April 4.

A token of the esteem felt for the Rev. James Howard

Launch Henry helped find the missing ingredient to educate minority engineers. Attorney

Launchford Henry is a teacher, an activist, and an engineer. He is primarily concerned about the lack of interest in engineering among the young people of the inner city. He has been instrumental in the launch of the National Fund for Minority Engineering Students.

The fund is a non-profit organization designed to encourage the number of Blacks, Puerto Ricans, Chicanos, Mexican Americans, and American Indians enrolled in engineering schools. It provides such things as scholarships, travel expenses, and other financial aid to help the young men and women who are interested in engineering.

IBM is a major sponsor of the fund. It has helped to pay for the launch of the fund. IBM is a major sponsor of the fund. It has helped to pay for the launch of the fund.

The National Fund for Minority Engineering Students is a very worthy organization. We think so. Launchford Henry thinks so. But most important of all, it is a fund that is needed by the young people of the inner city. It is a fund that is needed by the young people of the inner city.

Blacks and whites disagree on how much racial progress

A majority of white Americans feel that the racial problems dividing the country for so long have largely disappeared. Blacks, however, believe that much more must be done before the two races can be considered truly equal in today's society, according to an ABC News-Washington Post Poll released recently.

The poll covered major areas of racial relations in America including discrimination, prejudice, education, violence, religion and marriage and family life. Responding to questions on an agree/disagree basis, more than 60 percent of the blacks queried believe that they are discriminated against by the police; 64 percent, that black problems are only recognized by the government after demonstrations and violence; and more than half feel they are discriminated against in attaining skilled labor and managerial jobs and wages as well as housing. Almost three out of four blacks feel that they are not achieving equality because whites don't want them to.

The sharp division between black and white attitudes is clearly illustrated in the contrasting beliefs concerning the string of murders in Atlanta: 57 percent of the whites say the crimes are the work of isolated criminals acting on their own; an identical percentage of blacks feel the incidents are part of a conspiracy of some group against blacks.

Many whites feel the country's racial problems have almost been solved and that further progress will only come from blacks themselves. Blacks, on the other hand, expressed feelings of despair and fear that economic and social pressures continue to hold them back.

Blacks and whites do agree, however, that sweeping changes in America's racial relations have occurred in the last 20 years; in 1964 some 72 percent of Americans described their own neighborhood as "all white" while only 12 percent make that claim today. Sixty percent of blacks feel the quality of their lives has gotten better in the last decade, and that positive feeling spans age, education and income demographic groups.

Moreover, the poll's findings that younger blacks are more positive about themselves and that younger whites are more sympathetic to racial problems is, perhaps, the most hopeful finding for the future.

ABC News and the Washington Post interviewed 1,972 black and white Americans from February 26, 1981 to March 6, 1981.

Walk-A-Thon April 11

BLOOMINGTON—In tribute to the slain children of Atlanta, Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is planning a Walk-A-Thon to take place Saturday April 11th. Originally the money raised was to be sent to the victims families, but the news from Atlanta is "that now they only need moral support." In light of this information all funds generated will be given to the United Negro College Fund and the Walk-A-Thon will be dedicated to the children of Atlanta.

A telegram will be sent to the families informing them of the outcome of the fundraiser.

Pledge forms are available from any member of Tau chapter along with green ribbons to be worn in support of Atlanta.

I'm angry

I'm angry because black people are dying a slow, tortuous death. Yet, we still have pie-in-the-sky goals as our major priority.

I'm angry because the case of hypertension, strokes, heart attacks and suicides among black people have drastically risen. Yet, black people continue to dream of equality of opportunity in an increasingly unequal society.

I'm angry because the options of black people have been reduced to a single one: Personal survival. Yet, black people continue to have a major priority the elimination of racism from the face of the earth.

The 1960s provided a variety of alternative actions that blacks could take to achieve their goal of a fair and equal society. Some of those goals were:

1. Use of the legal apparatus of the system to allow the law to work its charm.
2. Mobilizing marches as a way of underscoring the problem of discrimination and touching America's conscience.
3. Utilizing militancy as a provocative tool and
4. Use of violence to force a change of governmental policy.

Few of these actions are any longer viable. The ultimate goal of achieving a fair and equal society is a fine goal if it is a long range goal. As a short range goal of major importance, it is a "pie in the sky" goal right up there with magic and mysticism. The odds against this goal being realized in our life time is so great that even Jimmy The Greek wouldn't touch it.

I'm angry because black people are more victimized by the stresses to living in a society that doesn't want them than ever before. The cases of abnormal behavior, high blood pressure and suicide as a means of escape are devastating. Yet, blacks dream about tomorrow and fail to develop the means of coping with the stresses and strains of living today.

The initial, urgent priority of black people should be to learn to live in a racist society without being slowly tortured and destroyed by it. Racism is a fact whether we like it or not. Racism is not going away — whether we like it or not.

I'm angry because blacks are not directing major energies to developing personal survival techniques that will serve as a barrier against acute neurosis, strokes, hypertension and heart attacks.

I'm angry because blacks have yet to realize on a large scale that if most of them succumb to the effects of stress there will not be any of them alive to enjoy the dream that has become a nightmare.

I'm angry because blacks are yielding more and more to symbolism and mysticism. Marches, discussion groups, prayer and anger are wonderful ways of freeing one's conscience but they do little to save you from the emotional and psychological turmoil that threatens your life.

I'm angry because astrology has taken such firm control of the lives of many black people and removes their lives from their own hands.

I'm angry because when we say, "what goes around, come around" we are waiting for some mystical super natural force to punish the evil goers, so, we are waiting for "something" or "someone" else to do the job for us.

I'm angry and you should be angry, too.

"WHILE THE RISING INCIDENCE OF CRIME HAS BEEN A SOURCE OF EMBARRASSMENT TO MANY BLACK LEADERS, FAR TOO MANY HAVE REMAINED AMBIVALENT TOWARD THE PROBLEM. PERHAPS THROUGH FEAR OF PROVIDING COMFORT TO RACISTS MASQUERADING BEHIND A MASK OF LAW AND ORDER, I RECOGNIZE THESE RISKS. BUT I ALSO RECOGNIZE AN EVEN GREATER RISK, THAT BLACKS THEMSELVES MAY CONFUSE THE RIGHT OF BLACK PEOPLE TO PROTEST THEIR UNSATISFACTORY CONDITION IN THE UNITED STATES WITH THE OPPORTUNITY FOR CRIMINALS TO PREY ON EXPOSED CITIZENS."

The revival of states rights

While public attention is diverted to the heavy budget cuts in social programs, the next stage of the current counter revolution in domestic policy is quietly proceeding.

That is the packaging of existing federal social programs into block grants which the states would administer with a minimum of federal supervision; in effect, turning over key social functions like health care and welfare to the states.

This new policy of shifting federal dollars, federal responsibilities, and federal powers to the fifty states amounts to a resurrection of the discredited concept of "states' rights."

Black people could teach the nation a bit about states' rights. We know states' rights meant separate drinking fountains, separate schools, separate and unequal lives.

We know that today, state administration of federal programs such as welfare, Medicaid, and others is inefficient and often discriminatory. We know that state and local administration is a large part of the reason why eligibility rules are ignored to the extent that nearly half of black welfare families are excluded from Medicaid.

Federal aid to education monies are often spent in violation of federal regulations by local school districts that use funds targeted for schools in poor neighborhoods for other purposes. Many school districts have had to return such mis-spent federal funds after they've been caught.

Yet, even with this record of inefficiency and misallocation of funds, lawmakers now purpose removing federal restrictions from federal tax dollars and turning money over to state and local governments to do what they have proven many times over they are incapable of doing — targeting money and programs for the benefit of the disadvantaged.

So while we must oppose budget cuts in programs that do work, we must prepare for the even tougher battle against block grants and the surrender of federal programs to the states.

Some states can be relied upon to institute and administer programs for the benefit of the disadvantaged. But the historical record, and the record of the current urban block grant programs, clearly demonstrates that many would abuse the rights of the poor.

Some state and local authorities make a persuasive argument for putting control of programs closer to the people they serve. But local authorities are far more vulnerable to local power structures and voting blocs that would end those programs.

Many states would treat the poor equitably. But rights embedded by law in federal entitlement programs would go by the boards. Twenty years of federal court decisions protecting the basic civil and human rights of program recipients would be wiped out by changing the ground rules of those programs.

The search for local solutions to social problems must be encouraged. But localizing solutions to national problems tends to compound those problems.

Federal social programs should meet clear criteria: They should be national in scope, accountable, efficient, and equitable. The block grant system violates every one of those criteria.

It would make about as much sense to turn national defense into a block grant program and rely on state National Guards for our security. Absurd, isn't it? Yet that is what we propose to do with programs essential for our domestic national security and well-being.

Those of us who have a vision of an open, pluralistic, integrated society, have the duty to resist an increase in the misery inflicted on poor people and the increase in the ranks of America's deprived.

We must question not only specific budget cuts, but the revival of states' rights doctrines that would push the poor deeper into the pit of poverty.

Danger! Salt or Sodium

For many decades scientists have seen blood pressures going up with additional sodium (salt) in a diet, and dropping when salt is restricted.

It is an opinion of a growing number of scientists that Americans can reduce the risk of having high blood pressure — and ultimately a heart attack or stroke — by reducing the amount of sodium of their diet. Keeping sodium to a minimum is particularly important for blacks and for the elderly, who are more susceptible to high blood pressure than the general population, according to medical experts.

According to published scientific reports, Americans today consume about 10 times the amount of salt they need for good health. Some studies have indicated that adults eat the equivalent of two to five teaspoons of salt and other sodium sources each day, counting what occurs naturally in food, what is added at the factory during processing and what is added in the kitchen during cooking. That amounts to about 15 pounds of sodium (salt) a year.

It is agreed by almost all scientists that salt causes the body to retain fluid and this increased fluid volume will increase blood pressure automatically, just as increased volume of water in a hose causes the water pressure to increase.

People crave salt, and in deed, must have some salt in a diet to remain healthy. But using a heavy hand on the salt shaker, or indulging in potato chips, pretzels etc. isn't necessary to fulfill the need. Such indulgence to excess simply sends the old blood pressure up and away — and helps to bring on strokes, heart disease, circulatory diseases, and early death.

Nutritional studies of adolescents are beginning to produce evidence that sub-teen and teen snacking habits are potent predictors of future high blood pressure and heart disease.

For example, a recent government survey and showed that black children and teens eat more salty snacks than whites, and — according to figures furnished by the Center for Science in the Public Interest — the high blood pressure rate among blacks is twice that among whites, with a hypertension-related death rate in the under-50 population six times that of whites.

Salt is an acquired taste in the sense that taste buds become desensitized. So to satisfy the taste craving, more and more salt needs to be used. By the same token, it only takes a couple of weeks of salt abstinence (or restriction) to re-educate the taste buds to be satisfied with less salt.

Scientists suggest that individuals who want to limit sodium can do so by shelling

The KKK is on the rise again. More militant and arrogant than ever. They openly display their automatic weapons. Engage in shootouts against the opposition. They have established training camps for their commandos. They are running for public office on their racial record, and in some cases, doing quite well. They've even joined the Boy Scouts of America to recruit and sponsor their future Klansmen. They openly stated their preference in the last Presidential election.

Mr. Reagan asked, "Who needs them?" I say, somebody. I'm sure. For they wear the uniforms of the U.S. Marines, U.S. Army, U.S. Navy and Air Force. They have chapters or organizations on their bases. They are among the policemen and sheriffs across this land. Have they also donned the uniform of Indianapolis' finest? I wonder.

They are renting booths across Indiana at the state fairs. Do you suppose they may rent a booth at Black Expo? Black Expo could use the money. Seriously, some of us could benefit by their exposure. Anyway, the Klan is active and on the rise again.

The Nazis are parading and goose stepping again. Not only in West Germany, but in Chicago and New York. Boston and Washington, D.C. Atlanta and Indianapolis. Passing out their hate literature. Recruiting the mentally ill who as yet have not been confined to one of our mental institutions.

They have infiltrated the police departments and sheriff's offices all over America. It seems that such paramilitary groups are made for them.

They are still worshipping the ideology of the mad Romanian corporal who violated his race. Some of us can really find strange gods to worship. The Nazis are parading and goose stepping again. Displaying their contempt for the law and order of this land.

The media is, as always, at it again. If there was ever a danger to the black people in this country, in this city, it is the media.

They are experts at assassinating the character of black people and destroying any positive image of black worthwhile organizations.

They can do more to discredit that they dislike or oppose in two minutes than their opposition can in twenty years. They have the money and power and sophistication to destroy and yet hear no guilt. They are continually waging psychological warfare against us. Too often we have no adequate defense. The media is still at it, becoming more dangerous every day.

The Christian. Oh the Christians. They are no longer in the lion's den and arena. They now own the lion dens and arenas. Paraphrasing a TV commercial, "How do you spell Christian?" V-I-O-L-E-N-C-E, that's how you spell Christian. Psychological and physical violence. Spiritual violence. They are now labeled the "Moral Majority." I don't know whether they are in the majority or not. Their morals are open to question. Like mine and condonances, they are "born again" much faster than this society can adjust to their righteous indignation, fundamental narrow-mindedness, and unlimited prejudices.

The "cudgel of suffering and shame" is not "a hill far away." It's planted in the neighborhoods among us in the form of the temple. Christians past and present are the main ingredients of the institutional racism against black people.

Finally, there is "National White Violence Against Black People," still on the increase among us. They are getting bolder. The incident on I-70 a few days ago is another concrete example of how bold they really are. It was "Individual White Violence" that prompted Christian, Holy, God fearing Moore to pull out his .357 magnum and shoot Powell. It was "Institutional White Violence" that prompted Prosecutor, Law abiding, Decendant of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob Goldsmith to let him go free. Without bond, no restraint.

It seems to me, if there was ever an example of Judeo-Christian relationships, that's it. This is the Lenten season. I should be thinking of something else. But these, right now, are my thoughts.

Trimming the fat

This nation has been engaged in a major struggle to eliminate hunger and malnutrition in this country for over fifteen years. Seemingly, the Reagan Administration and some other Congresspersons apparently want to halt the progress made thus far.

Amazingly, the Reagan Administration has proposed a 20 percent cut in food stamps and a 35 percent reduction in child nutrition programs. These programs are being cut on the premise that the programs are helping others than those for whom they are intended.

The Census Bureau released information on the recipients of food stamps. It reveals: "About 5.9 million U.S. households received food stamps in 1979. Median income of this group was $5,300 (compared to $16,530 for all U.S. households) and 3.5 million had an annual income below the poverty level" (which, in April, 1979, was $7,386 for a family of four).

Further, the report states that "the average annual value of food stamps received by all households was $810." In layman's terms that means that, on the average, these families received $15.59 per week in food.

The child nutrition programs and other related nutrition programs have made the difference in seeing large numbers of children who were malnourished — children with swollen bellies, dull eyes and poorly healing wounds — to seeing children who are now strong, healthy and aware.

Why, then, does the new Administration want to bring back a state of malnutrition? Simply through a mistaken belief that the government should not be in the business of providing assistance to the hungry, and through a felt need to save more money.

The government hopes to get public opinion on its side by exploiting the sick rumors about families and individuals who use food stamps. We've all heard someone "in the back room" griping about people buying steak with food stamps "while I can barely afford hamburger with my hard money." As in other welfare programs, efforts will be made to make us believe that those receiving help are not among the "truly needy."

This is not to say that no reform is possible. Conceivably the large number of college students who receive food stamps by claiming independence from their families might survive without this benefit.

The answer to cutting the fat off the budget does not lie with the poor; it lies with the preparation of a sound economic budget which does not penalize the weakest among us, the poor.

Atlanta tragedies remind us of need for family ties

To the editor:

Anyone who has been a black child probably understands the situation in Atlanta, Georgia, more than anyone else, especially one who grew up in an inner-city area.

How many black children from single parent homes where the mother is the sole head of the house are forever hoping everytime their mother brings a new boyfriend home, maybe the new boyfriend won't go away eventually like the others did?

You can drive through any inner-city neighborhood in the United States and you will always see black children running the streets unattended. Here in the city of Indianapolis, particularly the near northside and the eastside of town, you will see kids no more than eight years old playing in the streets, daring cars to hit them and bad mouthing every adult they see for no apparent reason. Sometimes you will see young black children playing at extremely late hours of the night without any supervision.

Many school teachers, white and black, usually will write the black child who is having problems on the home front off, and list him as a slow learner.

The child doesn't get any love at home or in school. In the child's desperate search for love, he will usually end up in the arms of the pimp, dope pusher, a nice kind homosexual, or some maniac who wants to bury him or her.

How many black children have heard their parent(s) tell them when they came into the house, "you better get out of this house and stop worrying me. Just go somewhere and play!"?

Black people are going to have to unite and start building strong family units and teach love and respect for one another if the black race is to survive.

Doctor Martin Luther King said, "Unless you can learn to live together, you will die apart as fools."

Eagles' Carmichael wins Miller High Life NFL man of The Year Award

PHILADELPHIA EAGLES wide receiver Harold Carmichael (right) accepts the Miller High Life NFL Man of the Year Award from Thomas B. Shropshire (left), Senior Vice President of the Miller Brewing Company, during halftime ceremonies at the NFL's Pro Bowl game here. Carmichael was selected for the prestigious award on the basis of his contributions to the Eagles and for his volunteer work in the Philadelphia community. A committee of media personnel and football conference officials selected Carmichael from among five NFL players who received the most votes during the award's regular-season balloting. Don Weiss (center), Executive Director of the National Football League, also participated in the ceremonies. Miller is an operating company of Philip Morris Incorporated. Principal beer brands include Miller High Life, Lite and Lowenbrau.

HONOLULU, Hawaii—Philadelphia Eagles wide receiver Harold Carmichael was named the winner of the 1980 Miller High Life National Football League Player of the Year award of the League's annual AFC/NFC Pro Bowl here.

Carmichael was selected on the basis of his contributions to the Philadelphia community as well as for his performance with the Eagles. He was presented the Miller award at halftime of the Pro Bowl by Thomas B. Shropshire, Senior Vice President of the Miller Brewing Company.

The selection of Carmichael, a 10 year veteran and four time participant in the Pro Bowl, was determined by a committee of sports media personnel after the Eagle veteran and four other NFL players had been selected finalists in a vote of the nation's fans.

The other finalists included Cleveland running back Mike Pruitt; Houston fullback Earl Campbell; New Orleans specialty ace Rich Mauti; and San Diego wide receiver Charlie Joiner.

"We are extremely pleased with the selection of Harold Carmichael," said Shropshire during the ceremonies in Honolulu. "He is one of the finest individuals in the National Football League and Miller High Life is pleased to be associated with him."

Carmichael, 6-foot, 8-inch, 225 pound graduate of Southern University, is actively involved with Philadelphia's Fellowship Commission, the nation's oldest and largest private human rights organization. This past year, Carmichael served as the sports division chairperson of the membership drive and has agreed to continue in that role through 1981.

In past years, Carmichael has been heavily involved with the Eagles Fly for Leukemia program and has done television commercials for the NFL's United Way series.

With pads on, Carmichael is equally active. He recorded 48 receptions during the 1980 season, climbing into the 15th spot among football's all-time record of having caught at least one pass in 127 consecutive games. His string began in 1972 and ended against the Dallas Cowboys in the Eagles' last regular-season game of 1980.

Just as Carmichael has been involved with a variety of community projects, so too has Miller High Life. In 1981, Miller will provide $36,000 in college scholarships on behalf of the 1980 NFL Man of the Year program. In honor of Carmichael, a $5,000 scholastic scholarship will be established in the Philadelphia area. The other four finalists will have $2,000 scholarships established in their names with the 23 remaining top vote-getters having $1,000 scholarships set up in their names.

Miller is an operating company of Philip Morris Incorporated. Principal beer brands include Miller High Life, Lite and Lowenbrau.

TEDDY FORD'S LOCKERROOM

Dantley NBA scoring champ: Murphy sets free throwmark

NEW YORK—

While Utah's Adrian Dantley broke the three-year reign on San Antonio's George Gervin as the National Basketball Association scoring champion, the biggest statistical news was made by the League's smallest players—5-9 Calvin Murphy of the Houston Rockets.

The Rockets' guard, who earlier this season overtook Rick Barry's record for consecutive free throws, has also surpassed Barry's all-time one-season record by hitting .967 from the line. Barry had held the mark with .947 in 1978-79 while a teammate of Murphy's at Houston and his streak of 60 consecutive free throws, set as a member of the Golden State Warriors in 1976, had also been the League standard. Murphy thus gained his first free throw percentage title after finishing second seven times (six to Barry).

Dantley, who finished the season with a 30.7 average, becomes the second member of the Jazz to win the League scoring title since the team came into the NBA for the 1974-75 season, joining Pete Maravich who gained the crown in 1976-77.

Adrian had three games of 50 or more points, including the League high of 55 against Denver, Feb. 6, and seven others of 40 or more en route to the scoring crown. He scored in double figures in each of his 80 games with a low of 11 at Los Angeles, Jan. 27.

Houston's Moses Malone finished second to Dantley with a 27.6 average, followed by Gervin (27.1), Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles (26.2).

ADRIAN DANTLEY

and Denver's David Thompson (25.5).

In addition to his second place finish in scoring, Malone won the rebound title for the second time with a 14.9 average, with San Diego's Sven Nater (12.4), last year's winner, second and Golden State rookie Larry Smith (12.1) third. Smith, the first rookie since Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor (1969-70) to finish among the League's top three rebounders, also had the season's one-game high with 31 against Denver on the next to last day of the season.

Among the playmakers, Washington's Kevin Porter won the assists title for the fourth time with a 9.1 average, and was closely followed by Norm Nixon of Los Angeles and Kansas City's Phil Ford, both at 8.5.

Other leaders were Chicago's Artis Gilmore in field goal percentage (.670) and San Antonio's George Johnson in blocked shots (5.39), Magic Johnson of Los Angeles in steals (8.43) and San Diego's Brian Taylor (.389) in three-point field goal percentage.

Overall, the League's three-point field goal percentage was .288 on 986-for-3,407 compared to .289 a year ago on 1,405-for-5,005.

From a team standpoint, the Philadelphia 76ers equalled the League record with 37 home victories tying the mark set by Los Angeles in 1976-77, and later matched by the 76ers (1977-78) and Los Angeles (1977-78). And the Denver Nuggets with Thompson, Alex English (26.6) and Dan Issel (21.5) became the first team to have three all-time players average 20 or more points in the same season since the 1971-72 Golden State Warriors with Jeff Mullins (21.5), Nate Thurmond (21.4) and Charlie Scott (21.4).

without bond."

Another question raised by protestors, some who called and others who showed up at Recorder offices, is how is that Moore, only a factory worker was granted a gun permit?

Sources say it was obtained from the Hendricks County Sheriff's Department.

Members of the victim's family said Wednesday they were in no way satisfied with the grand jury return, and hinted they might even hire a private attorney to investigate.

Moore is sticking with his story his only purpose was to "scare" Powell, saying he fired the fatal shot because he feared for his life, that of his wife who was driving their car, and their 10-year-old son who was a passenger.

According to reports given to first investigators by the Moore couple, Powell had been driving his 1980 Riviera recklessly on the highway, purposely failing to yield right of way to the Moore vehicle.

Despite a rain storm at that hour, they told police windows in both cars were rolled down as the men exchanged bitter words. Finally, Moore showed Powell his weapon, but to no avail, and the gunman fired, meaning to strike only a tire on the Riviera.

The Moores then drove to Hagerstown, Ind., where they stopped and called police.

A prime witness has to be a security guard at the scene, some feel only he can substantiate or refute with authority Moore's claim that Powell drove purposely at times in front of Moore's vehicle, changed lanes and seemed to be trying to run the latter off the road.

Funeral services for Powell were to be held Thursday at Eastside Baptist Church, with burial in Washington Park, North Cemetery.

One co-worker shook his head as he left Recorder offices: "It just gets you. You work alongside a man you think you know pretty well and he leaves work seeming like nothing's wrong. The next thing you know he's dead after something like this. It just kind of gets you."

The group's third album, aptly titled "The Gap Band III," has just reached gold and is showing platinum potential with the former No. 1 "Burn Rubber on Me" single still popular and a strong followup called "Yearning For Your Love." The consistent chart success has resulted in a 50-city tour of 10,000-seat halls with Yarbrough and Peoples, an act the brothers discovered in a Tulsa night club.

But the brothers are quick to point out this success doesn't leave them parked on Easy Street. There's more work to be done.
